Altafiber's mission is to connect people in the communities they serve. The former Cincinnati Bell is a high-speed fiberoptic internet and content provider today, with a goal to provide "connection without carbon" – without a carbon footprint, that is. altafiber's Sustainability Director, Nadja Turek, will provide a corporate perspective on their journey to net-zero by 2040, their climate action plans and projects, and their management of significant climate risks, especially to their subsidiary Hawaiian Telcom. altafiber has invested $2+ billion in fiber to serve Greater Cincinnati, plus more than 400,000 homes in new markets in Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana. Subsidiary Hawaiian Telcom has invested $1.7B towards the goal of making Hawaii the "first fully fiber-enabled state in the country by 2026." Meanwhile, the company has successfully decoupled business growth from carbon growth, reducing emission 10.5% in the last four years. How? Why? Come learn more!

Letter from the President

I hope everyone's fall season is off to a great start. While my own schedule has been busier than I would like, our Dayton ASHRAE Chapter continues to move forward thanks to the strong efforts of our volunteers and members. Behind the scenes, our committees are preparing programs and networking activities—one of which is the upcoming YEA Top Golf joint event with the Cincinnati ASHRAE Chapter.

We're also collaborating with neighboring chapters to further strengthen our local network of engineers and industry professionals. I look forward to seeing many of you at our upcoming meetings.

Thank you for your continued support of the Dayton Chapter. Let's keep the momentum strong as we continue to grow and connect.

ASHRAE Chapter President
